AMERICAN COMBATANT FORCES ARE IN ITALY

General March Makes Important Announcement.

Says Situation on Marne Salient Is Satisfactory.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, July 27.—Trained combatant American troops from France have begun to arrive in Italy, General March announced today in his regular conference with newspaper men.

Neither the number nor place where they are to be used has been communicated to the War Office the general said.

Two additional American army corps have been organized in France, General March announced. They are the Fourth and Fifth, commanded by Major Generals Geo. W. Reed and Omar Bundy, respectively.

Summing up the battle situation in the Aisne-Marne front General March said that it had resulted, according to official advice, in forcing the Germans back eleven miles further from Paris and shortening the allied line by ten miles.

The positions on the flank of the salient near Soissons and Rheims are relatively unchanged. The general said that the German withdrawal at Chateau Thierry toward the center of the salient continues and the important German position at Fere-en-Tardenois is now within 3 1/2 miles of the allied line and under constant shell fire.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, July 27.—The Marine Corps casualty list shows killed in action, 1; wounded severely, 7; missing, 4; total 12.

Ohio men in the list are: Killed in action, John A. Bobovynk, Youngstown; Thurman E. Worstall, Zanesville; wounded in action: Walter S. Austin, Cincinnati.

THE FOE'S LINE OF RETREAT

The solid black areas represent the latest Allied gains. According to reports from prisoners taken the Germans have been ordered to fall back to a new line of defense before Fere-en-Tardenois, on line (1), evacuating the criss-cross area. In case of further retreat the enemy will probably fall back on the Vesle River, line (2) giving up the horizontally shaded territory. The Aisne River, on the north line (3), would probably constitute his third line of defense. The dash line indicates the battlefront at the beginning of the Allied counter drive. The names in rectangles are those of French generals commanding sectors of the front.

30000 HUNS ARE TAKEN BY ALLIES

Since the Beginning of the Counter Offensive Foe Has Paid Dearly in Prisoners.

(By Associated Press Cable)

Paris, July 27.—The number of German prisoners captured by the allies since the beginning of the counter offensive is placed at 30,000 by the Havas Agency.

The position of the ship which was sending S. O. S. calls was said to be near the regular trans-Atlantic steamship lane.

OHIO'S AUGUST SUGAR SUPPLY IS 8,000,000 POUNDS SHORT

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., July 27.—Ohio's sugar allowance for August is eight million pounds less than for July, according to information received by the State Food Administration from Washington today.

This reduction, it was stated, will necessitate a strict observance of the rules limiting two pounds per month for each person instead of three pounds as at present.

Housewives may still secure sugar in twenty-five pound lots for canning purposes only on proper certificates from local Food Administration committees. They are urged to do the maximum amount of canning with the least possible amount of sugar.

Public eating places are to be limited to two pounds of sugar for each 9 meals served. They must obtain certificates also.

FEW FATALITIES

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, July 27.—There were only three fatalities in airplane accidents in aviation camps in the United States during the week ending July 20, said a statement today by the War Department. They occurred at San Antonio.

TRANSPORT 50000 MEN LAST WEEK

Total for July of American Troops Sent Oversea Will Probably Reach 300,000.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, July 27.—With 50,000 troops since last week the number of American soldiers transported overseas during July is expected to reach the record of 300,000, Secretary Baker and General March, chief-of-staff, told members of the Senate Military Committee today.

With the shipment of men last week the total number of American troops embarked for France was 1,250,000.

In announcing the formation of two more military corps General March said the Eighty-third National Army under General E. F. Glenn was assigned to the Fourth Corps.

NOT ENOUGH FOOD FOR THE RUSSIANS AND GERMANS TOO

Situation Between the Two Peoples Is Grave Indeed. Must Determine Who Is to Have Provisions.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, July 27.—The food situation between Germany and Russia has reached an acute stage, according to advices received today at the State Department.

There is not enough food for both countries and the question as to who will get what provisions there are has reached a critical stage.

French Strike the German Line at Pont a Binson on the South Side of Marne.

Attempt Is Made to Put the Enemy in a Pocket Within a Pocket.

Further Back Toward the Middle of the Marne Wedge.

Germans Still Seeking to Retreat with Armies and to Salvage Vast Stores of Material and Ammunition.

(By War Editor of The Associated Press)

Shifting their blows to the southern arc of the sector between Soissons and Rheims the French have struck the German lines north of Point-A-Binson on the Marne, about one mile south of the village of Chatillon.

The advance east of Rheims was seemingly for the purpose of restoring the allied line in that section of the battle front.

A considerable success near Chatillon would put the enemy in a pocket within a larger pocket and tend to force their withdrawal to new lines further back toward the middle German salient.

West of Point-A-Binson the Germans are holding the northern bank of the Marne for a considerable distance and the French apparently have struck the angle between the German line along the river and back from the Marne towards Rheims.

In spite of the general expectation that the Germans are fighting on the southern side of the salient to cover the retreat of their armies and the salvaging of the vast supplies piled up along the Marne in preparation for the great offensive which began July 15 there appeared to be a disposition on the part of some of the military experts to consider the possibility of a new German attack somewhere on the battle line between Soissons and Rheims.

HUNS YIELDING SLOWLY TO THE YANK PRESSURE

(By Associated Press Cable)

With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne front, July 27.—The Germans were slowly yielding at midday along the southern arc of the Marne salient. The American troops in this sector continue pressing forward with artillery support against a heavy German gun fire.

The French have moved their positions ahead somewhat with every indication that their progress would continue.

The Germans were still occupied today in shifting the main body of their forces northward.

FRENCH MAKE MORE GAINS

(Associated Press Cable)

Paris, July 27.—Further advances were scored by the French last night in the region immediately to the north of the Marne in the district where the Germans have been clinging to the river.

FRENCH MOTHER GIVING FLOWERS TO AMERICANS

MOTHERS' DAY IN FRANCE.

A French peasant woman giving flowers to our fighters. She has two sons in the service and has undergone the hardships of being a prisoner in the hands of the enemy when they invaded the section of the country in which she lived.

On the Champagne front the French carried out a local operation in the region of the mountain without a name as a result of which their lines were advanced nearly two-thirds of a mile on a front of approximately two miles. The French took 200 prisoners in this operation.

OBSERVE SUNDAY AS "SERBIA DAY"

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, July 27.—The churches of America were called upon today by Secretary Lansing to observe tomorrow, the fourth anniversary of Serbia's refusal to meet the demands of Austria as "Serbia Day" and "to give expression to their sympathy with this wronged people and their oppressed and dominated kindred in other lands and to invoke the blessings of Almighty God upon them and the cause to which they are pledged."

HUNS DRIVEN FROM WOODS

Franco-American Forces Overcame Stubborn Defense Gradually Crawling Forward.

(By Associated Press Cable)

With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne front, July 27.—The Franco-American forces on the front north-east of Chateau Thierry have driven the Germans almost entirely out of the wooded area which they have been stubbornly defending.

The allied pressure is being constantly maintained and early today the punishment of the enemy by artillery fire was resumed with added vigor.

Under the cover of the guns the Franco-American troops again began crawling forward. Slowly retreating the Germans are fighting stubbornly as they retire.

BANK ROBBED

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Cincinnati, O., July 27.—A young man calmly entered the Reading Bank at Reading, Ohio, just north of Cincinnati at one o'clock this afternoon, held up the cashier and other employees of the institution and stole a sum of money believed to be $6,000.

He walked out as calmly as he entered and escaped in a taxicab speeding down Reading Road toward Cincinnati.

ARTILLERY DUELS

(Associated Press Cable)

London, July 27.—The German artillery was active last night in the angle between the Somme and Ancre rivers northeast of Amiens, today's War Office reports show. Both the British and enemy artillery displayed activity further north in the sector of La Banfle canal.

WHEAT-FLOUR EXCHANGE PLAIN RULE IS DEFINED

Millers and Elevator Men Receive Instructions Defining Explicitly What Can and Cannot Be Done.

Just What Farmers Can Get at the Mill in Exchange for Their Own Wheat Is Made Plain.

There has been, quite naturally, some considerable confusion regarding the status of millers, elevator men and farmers who raise wheat regarding the exchange of flour and feed for wheat and the rights of the producer of wheat to flour and feed.

Local mill and elevator men are in receipt of instructions and orders this morning from the National Food Administration which very clearly defines the rights and privileges of the millers and elevator men and the restrictions which must be observed by millers, elevator men and farmers who raise wheat.

Under these instructions farmers who raise wheat may obtain from the miller, out of the wheat raised by them eight pounds of flour per month per person in his immediate family up to October 1st, 1918. The miller is authorized to exchange flour for wheat on the basis of 41 pounds of flour and 14 pounds of feed per bushel of 58 pounds or heavier, of clean wheat—farmers to pay 35 cents per bushel to cover the cost of manufacture and exchange.

These orders are direct from the National Food Administration at Washington and permit of no deviation from their express terms. They are not compulsory on any mill or elevator man. The mill and elevator men are only given the privilege to make the exchange on those terms and on no others, at their option.

In order to secure the advantages of this exchange on the terms laid down by the government farmers who raise wheat and bring it to the mill are required to sign a certificate to the effect that the wheat, out of which the exchange is requested, is of their own raising and that the amount of flour they have on hands together with the amount sought in exchange for wheat will not be more than sufficient to supply him and his immediate family with flour longer than October 1st, 1918, and that he will not sell, loan or use the flour for any other purpose save human consumption.

These orders are clear, concise and imperative. They are binding upon farmers, mill men, and elevator men alike. They should be read carefully and understood and obeyed. There is no need of any confusion in the mind of any wheat producing farmer as to his rights and privileges under the order of the Food Administration neither is there any option presented the mill men save that of compliance with the order strictly and literally.

LOCAL BOY GIVES LIFE TO NATION

Clarence M. Hard, Killed in Action on July 15, According to War Department Notification.

Was Member of Engineers' Corps—Enlisted in May, 1917—Been Overseas Since Last November.

"Washington, D. C., July 26
"Mrs. Hard:

Deeply regret to inform you that Private Clarence M. Hard, Engineer, is officially reported as killed in action July 15.

"ADJUTANT GENERAL"
That's the brief message, the formal notification, to the mother, Mrs. Charles C. Hard, of South North St., this city, that her son had given his life on the battle field "somewhere in France," that liberty and freedom might endure in the world.

There is no further information given at this time. For the present the grief-stricken mother and father, brothers and sisters are only given the sad information that the end came to the son and brother while in the discharge of his duty as a soldier of the republic fighting that our nation and our ideals may be preserved to the present generation and to posterity.

No more glorious obituary could be written of an American boy, no more sacred eulogy could be penned by the hand of man than that brief and formal message carried over the wires and delivered on Friday evening. It's the whole story of a life well lived and gloriously ended—a career well rounded out, a few years of life accomplishment which surpasses many of four times its span of time crowded in intense activity and noble self-sacrifice for his native land and for humanity. "Killed in action July 15."

Somewhere in France—across the sea—the kind French folks and the brave comrade soldiers of the republic have laid to final rest on battlefields of liberty one of Fayette county's brave sons.

Clarence M. Hard was among Fayette county's first volunteers, leaving home on October 5, 1917. He was a member of A company, 6th Regiment Engineer Corps. He volunteered for service on May 24th, 1917, successfully passed all examinations and was accepted for and inducted into military service.

About the first of December or the latter part of November he left this country for active service overseas. At the time of leaving America young Hard, who was then in his 27th year, was listed as a first class Private.

After completing his course in the local schools he was employed by the Washington Lumber Company until the latter part of 1915 when he left Washington to accept a position in the Goodrich Rubber Company at Akron, Ohio. For a little more than a year he remained with the rubber company at Akron and then entered Art School at Chicago. It was while attending school at Chicago that the call to service became so insistent that it could no longer be postponed. Hurriedly concluding his school work young Hard came home to Washington and sought to enlist. He was instructed to go to Chillicothe where he did volunteer for service, passed the necessary examinations and was enlisted.

From Chillicothe he was sent to Ft. Thomas where he remained for several weeks and thence to Camp American University, Washington, D. C., and from there to Camp Balbour, Va., and from thence to the Barracks at Washington, D. C. where he remained for some six or seven weeks, immediately prior to his departure for overseas. The last letter received from him was about two weeks ago and that was dated about two weeks before it was received here by the family. Neither in the date line, contents of the letter or postmark was any information imparted to show his exact location in France. The family have only the obscure statement of "somewhere in France."

He is survived by a father, mother, three brothers: Laris, Charles and Frank; and two sisters: Mrs. Myrtle Snyder and Miss Grace Hard, all residents of Washington.

Young Hard was an active and valued member of the local lodge L. O. O. F. and a consistent member of the Baptist church of this city.

HEAVY AX SLIPS; FOOT CUT OPEN

Glenn Dowler, while engaged with others in the work of clearing and preparing large logs for market in the Kelly Dixon woods south of town on the Good Hope pike, was painfully injured on Friday afternoon when the heavy and exceedingly sharp ax slipped from the log he was cutting and struck him in the foot, cutting the whole top open.

He was hurried to the office of Dr. W. E. Ireland who administered aid. While Mr. Dowler's hurts are not regarded as serious unless complications develop, he will be unable to bear his weight on the injured foot for quite a while. At present he is resting comfortably at his home in this city.

SUGAR RATIONS ARE AGAIN CUT

Washington, July 27.—The American rations of three pounds of sugar each person a month was today cut to two pounds by the Food Administration. The order takes effect August 1 and is expected to remain in force until January 1. It may be possible at that time to loosen the restrictions somewhat.

A similar order to public eating houses limits their sugar supply to two pounds for every ninety meals. At the present time no further reduction will be placed on the soft-drink manufacturers, who are already operating on a fifty per cent basis. The Food Administration expects that the domestic reduction to two pounds will save enough sugar to meet the necessities of our allies.

The ration remains a voluntary one, and there is no intent to make it compulsory, but the supplies of sugar on hand are to be allotted to the various states on the two-pound basis, and failure of voluntary ration in any state will create a deficit in that state which will not be met by the National Administration by further allotments.

The reduction became necessary to meet the pledges being made by Food Administrator Hoover to the allies. England is now on a two-pound basis, though before the war she used more sugar than the United States. France allows its people a maximum of a pound and a half, while the Italian rations is a pound. These are compulsory rations.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Hugh Creamer entertained the Spring Grove Red Cross Unit Thursday afternoon. The summer's heat has no effect upon this Unit, its patriotic women doing their full quota of work.

Facing Death Every Day

Duty of Ambulance Man
A bomb fell on a five-story building in Paris. The top floors crumbled into a mass of wreckage supported only by the slender iron pillars of the ground floor. The police department flashed the word to the American Red Cross garage and to the fire department of the district. Ambulances and engines rushed out through the absolutely black streets to the disaster.

Calls for help sounding from the front of the building served to guide the rescuers. By the aid of flashlights the fireman and ambulance men—treading like cats lest they bring down a mass of beams—finally got within fifteen feet of the imprisoned tenant.

The rescue party crowded through a narrow rent in the wall into a room where a single iron pillar held up hundreds of tons of wreckage. They cut a hole in the wall, only to find an iron stove in the way. Then they worked the stove apart, drew it piece by piece through a hole in the wall, and one of the men crawled in and got the injured man.

The little iron pillar still held and the ambulance men backed their way into the alley carrying their burden. Then thirty feet of solid wreckage slipped and piled itself up in the room where the stove had been.

When a German bomb finds a target, the Red Cross Ambulance man slips on his steel helmet, takes up his gas mask and goes out to "warm up" his ambulance. He is always ready. He faces death every day, for he never knows whether the thin iron pillar will hold or give way too soon.

A Comparison

When we consider that the Marne battle field, which includes the Soissons-Rheims "wedge" where such terrible fighting is now occurring between the trapped armies of the German Crown Prince in their desperate endeavor to withdraw from the pocket into which they were led by the strategy of Foch and the Franco-American forces in their relentless offensive to destroy those armies, is but little larger than Fayette county, we can begin to comprehend a little more clearly how frightful the struggle is.

When we get fixed in our minds the size of the battle field and then realize that probably a million men about equally divided between the Franco-Americans and the Germans, considering their lines and positions, are engaged in the conflict with machine guns, artillery, airplanes, gas shells, rifles, bayonets and side arms; that day and night incessantly the awful fury of battle rages unceasingly, the intensity of the inferno is appalling.

The wonder is that any living man can escape alive. When we grasp those comparisons then we can understand, when a large detachment of Germans were permitted to enter a small village in that area and the great guns of the allies, on the hills commanding the section, opened up their concentrated fire, not a German soldier was left to be taken prisoner and not a German soldier escaped from the doomed village when the artillery fire ceased and how, even the village itself, literally pounded to dust, disappeared in the dense smoke clouds as they rolled away from the field of carnage, lifting the curtain from a very small part of the stage upon which is being enacted the appalling drama of the world war.

Outgeneraled And Outfought

The German strategists and field marshals have been clearly out-generaled on the western front. During every important engagement since and including the March offensive, the allies have been victors in the fighting, if we search for victory in the combat in the progress toward the final end of the struggle.

So far as making progress which tended to the attainment of their ultimate object their advances have been negligible. They have secured, in almost every instance, territory of no strategic value and have lost frightfully in men and morale.

The allies have been fighting a safe battle, saving their man power for the time certain to come and approaching nearer every day when the side which can hurl the larger force into the decisive battle will be able to win the war.

The developments following the counter attacks on the Soissons, Chateau-Thierry, Rheims wedge are disclosing that the German general staff has been more than matched in strategy, perhaps, disastrously on the Marne battle field, and perhaps in other sectors farther north on the great battle line as well.

Giving The Credit

As the days go by and the results of America's preparations for war are increasingly and indisputably apparent, as the tremendous force of America in every branch of war is manifested in the results on the battle fields in France, as America's part in the great victories now being won become definitely known, the desire to give to Secretary of War Baker his due share of credit for the splendid accomplishments of the nation, grows among all fair-minded Americans.

With a remarkably clear insight into conditions and a full appreciation of the magnitude of the problem which confronted the nation Secretary Baker began to build from the ground up. Instead of hurrying men overseas untrained, instead of ordering great quantities of inferior guns, instead of rushing the completion of aircraft and risking faulty construction and instead of acting hastily in any other branch of the war work he devoted months to getting started right.

With the people wrought up to a high nervous tension and overly-anxious to be actively engaged in the war, there was a disposition to blame Secretary Baker personally, rather than conditions for the delay in getting "an army" to France.

Now that the foundation has been builded and the finished product in soldiers, in ships, in guns, in airplanes are being turned out in such superb quality and such amazing quantities, his work is beginning to receive the approval it has all along merited.

Poetry For Today

HIS STAR

We laughed when little Bill said,
"Dad,
I'm going to the war!"
But that's his star a-waving
On the flag outside our door.
It didn't seem conceivable
That such a puny lad
Could get into the Army.—
But it shows the spunk he had.
Yes, Bill was a persistent,
Bull-headed little cuss
Though when the doctors turned him down
He didn't make a fuss,
Just said, "Me for the country, Dad,
I'll come back fine as silk;
I'll eat my weight in potcheese
And I'll swim in cream and milk."
That night he came and told me
Just before he went to bed,
As near as he remembered,
What the Army doctors said:
"They listen through a stethoscope
To get some inside news,
And something in my heart told me
That I was going to lose.
They didn't mention leprosy,
I'm glad I haven't that
But I've got everything else, Dad,
To put me on the mat.
I'm underweight and undersized;
They say I have flat feet;
I'm short a few biceps
Used for flenchering meat.
My right lung is as good as new,
The other one's a wreck
But though the left one is not right
The right one's left, by Heck!
Then, infantile paralysis
They say I've barely missed,
But spinal meningitis may
Soon put me on the list.
My optic nerves do not project
Clear pictures to my brain;
My pericardium shows that
I'm suffering from jtomaine.
Then somewhere in my system
There's a floating kidney loose
And there's too much sally-something
In my pancreatic juice.
They hinted at sarcoma
Of the epithelium;
I don't know what it is but you'll
Admit that's going some!
My respiration is too short;
My tonsils are too long;
My whole metabolism is Absolutely wrong!
But why should a corpse worry?
I don't care now, what they said.—
Their autopsy distinctly shows
I've been a long time dead!"

Bill left next day for the old farm
Owned by his dotting aunts.—
We haven't seen him since, although
He wrote to us from France.
We laughed when little Bill said,
"Dad,
I'm going to the war!"
But that's his star a-waving
On the flag outside our door.
Yes, Bill was a persistent,
Bull-headed little cuss.—
He writes he's now chief deck-hand
On an eight-ton Army bus
By Adolphe E. Emylie of the Vigilantes.

"IT'S TOO MUCH TROUBLE"

Some people would rather be cold all night than reach down to the foot of the bed and pull up the covers, because "it's too much trouble." Reading is never "too much trouble" to the man who really wants to learn, and when he comes to a word he doesn't know he looks it up in the dictionary. It wasn't "too much trouble" for Fulton to keep plugging along and invent the steamboat. It wasn't "too much trouble" for the Wright Brothers to develop the airplane. It wasn't "too much trouble" for Edison to invent the light we all use today. When you see a bag of money walking by you, is it "too much trouble" to reach out and grab it? H. C.

NOTABLE WAR WORK BEHIND THE LINES

Mr. Davis Edwards, of the University of Utah faculty, who has been doing notable war work behind the lines both as a "four-minute man" and a Government speaker in Utah, to explain the meaning and need of the legend "Carry On," has also been associated with prominent men of the west in similar work in Montana.

The "Daily Missoulian Missoula" of Montana speaks in appreciative and complimentary terms of "Professor Davis Edwards, of the University of Utah, who directed the practical training of speech making and speech preparation during 'War Speakers' Week' at the State University of Montana, and who also was one of those who addressed University groups on war training." Governor Stewart and the most prominent men of the state were among the week's speakers.

The success with which Mr. Edwards conducted the big war course and the recognition he is winning in the west is most gratifying to a host of friends in this city.

Later in the summer Mr. Edwards expects to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Edwards.

Miss Esther Leland is in receipt of a much valued souvenir, one of the letters given to American soldiers by King George, on their arrival in England some time ago.

The letter is written in King George's own hand writing and bears the beautiful crest of the Royal family. The letter is as follows:

Windsor Castle.

Soldiers of the United States, the people of the British Isles welcome you on your way to take your stand beside the Armies of many nations, now fighting in the Old World, the great battle for human freedom.

The Allies will gain new heart and spirit in your company. I wish that I could shake the hand of each one of you and bid you God-speed on your mission.

FATAL INJURIES SUSTAINED WHEN MACHINE SKIDS

Charles Lyons of Greenfield Has Head Almost Crushed to Pulp When He Is Hurlled from Motor Cycle Against Telephone Pole.

Tragedy Occurred South of the City on the Chillicothe Pike Friday Night at 11:30 o'clock.

A terrible and probably fatal accident occurred Friday night about 11:30 o'clock when Charles Lyons, aged about 18 years, an employee of the Greenfield Auto Company, Greenfield, Ohio, was thrown from the motorcycle, upon which he and a companion were riding, and hurled violently against a telephone pole, striking his head and face and crushing them almost beyond recognition.

Young Lyons and his companion were riding a tandem motorcycle on their way from this city to Greenfield. At the southern boundary of the city they endeavored to pass Herbert McCoy, who was on his way home from this city driving a high powered Mercer car. McCoy was driving rapidly and when the motorcycle, approaching from the rear increased his speed with the result, according to the statement of Lyons' companion on the motorcycle, that at the time the accident occurred they were traveling at a rate of speed which he estimated to have been about 75 miles per hour.

Just beyond the covered bridge while endeavoring to round the deep curve between the bridge and the Good Hope pike, in some manner unexplained, the speeding motorcycle slipped, or the unfortunate rider lost control and was dashed to the side of the road striking squarely against one of the large telephone poles on the west side of the pike, or the outside of the curve.

McCoy, in his fast flying car, intent on his own driving, knew nothing of the terrible accident which had occurred behind him and proceeded on his way.

The terribly injured young man and his companion were picked up a few moments later by strangers traveling along the pike on their way to Chillicothe. Seeing the desperate injuries which young Lyons had sustained they immediately took him and his companion in their car and rushed to this city with them. After seeing to it that the injured man was placed in proper custody they proceeded on their way without leaving their names.

The impact of the motorcycle against the telephone pole was so violent as to leave, clearly observable, in the telephone pole the outline of the headlight. Young Lyons must, judging from the injuries received by him, have struck the pole with his face and head after having been catapulted from the flying motorcycle traveling at the rate of 75 miles an hour.

When picked up he was wholly unconscious and his face and head was but a mass of blood, crushed flesh and broken bone.

He was rushed at once to the Fayette Hospital, Dr. Roy E. Brown summoned, an anesthetic administered and such operations as were possible to relieve the immediate crisis performed. A hasty examination by Dr. Brown at the hospital showed that the face had been crushed almost beyond recognition, the left side almost entirely mashed in, the nose crushed and torn loose, the left upper jaw bone broken as was also the palate of the mouth, so that the entire upper portion of the left side of the face was with difficulty prevented, by the aid of the fragments of torn flesh and muscle from falling down over the lower jaw. It was feared also that the skull had been crushed.

After having rendered every aid possible the injured man was conveyed in the ambulance of A. R. McCoy to his home in Greenfield at about 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning, with little hope that he would ever rally from the terrible hurts he had sustained.

Miraculous as it may seem, the young man riding with Lyons on the motorcycle received no injuries at all. The motorcycle was completely wrecked.

BIG EVENTS TAKE FORM AS FOURTH YEAR OPENS

Fate of Nations Begin to Take Shape Out of the Chaos of European Struggle.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Events big with the fate of nations have marked the fourth years of the war which now comes to a close. It has been a twelve months of alternate hope and concern for the Powers of the Entente Alliance.

It was on July 28 1914 that Austria declared war on Serbia beginning the great struggle. During the past twelve months there have been occurrences that in some aspects have been of even greater import in their influence upon the world than those in the preceding period. Russia's collapse the Italian defeat last autumn the stupendous drives of the Germans against Allied armies and the wonderful defensive operations that have again and again checked the enemy when success seemed near at hand have held the world breathless. But transcending the significance any event in the actual theaters of the war America's full participation in the conflict involving the transportation overseas of more than a million men to engage in it must remain for all time the great outstanding feature of the fourth year of the struggle. It is upon America that the Entente is relying for the men and resources to turn the tide.

A year ago the number of American troops going to Europe had not begun to assume large proportions. A few regulars and some National Guardsmen had been sent to France, but most of the big military training camps were still being built and the men selected as the first contingent to be called to the colors were still in citizens' clothes. Until the first day of August of 1917 the total number of American soldiers taken overseas was 26,967.

Soon after that date the movement of troops was accelerated. Thousands were despatched across the Atlantic during the winter months, but it was not until the great German offensive was started late in March of 1918 that the movement began to assume really noteworthy proportions. The figures for the months of August 1, 1917 to July 1, 1918, follow:

August 18,323; September 32,523; October 38,259; November 23,016; December 48,840; January 46,776; February 48,027; March 83,811; April 117,212; May 244,345; June 276,382.

On July 1, 1918, there were 14,644 American marines in France, bringing the total number of American troops in that country and Italy up to 1,019,115.

During the recent fighting in France the work of the American soldier has compared favorably with that of other fighting men in the world. They have held sectors here and there along the front. They are in Alsace and northward in the Lorraine sector. The famous St. Mihiel sector is held by Americans who are posted also on the line along the heights of the Meuse. East of Rheims they took part in the fighting during the last phase of the German offensive while in the Chateau Thierry sector they held their line in a vital region against the utmost fury of the Teutonic onslaught. North of Chateau Thierry, Americans helped to stop the drive of the Germans in the early days of June; and in the Somme sector, at Cantigny and Grivesnes they have given proof of their soldierly qualities.

The Allies have been called upon to face two great offensives during the past year. The first of these came last October in Italy and the second, in France, began on March 21. The German drives in France, while separated by periods of from a few days to several weeks, have been considered as different phases of the same offensive. The abortive Austrian attack against Italy in June also is looked upon as merely another attack against the western front and not as a distinct military operation.

But these offensives perhaps never would have been begun had it not been for the collapse of Russia during the past winter. German and Austrian troops, released from the Russian front, were taken to France and Italy to swell the masses of men hurled against the Allies in the western theater of operations. As long as Russia remained in the fight she held great numbers of Teutonic troops in the east, and her withdrawal from the war exerted a fundamental influence on the course of its development.

Situation a Year Ago

The year opened with the fortunes of war apparently favoring the Entente. The British had forced back the Germans to the famous Hindenburg line. The French had established themselves firmly along the Chemin des Dames, north of the Aisne. The echoes of Verdun were still ringing the knell of German hopes in that sector of the battle area. The Italians were holding their lines along the Isonzo. The rejuvenated Russian "regiment of July First" had carried the war far into the Austrian defenses in Bukovina and Galicia.

Through August and September, of 1917, there came rumors that Russia was exhausted by the war, and quiet settled down along the lines from theaters of the Carpathians to the Baltic. Stories were heard of fraternization of German and Russian troops but assurances came from Petrograd that Russia would stand true to her allies.

CONDITIONS OF WEATHER AND CROPS FOR WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 24, 1918.—

Corn was improved by higher temperatures in the northeastern states and by cooler weather with rain in the central Great Plain, but it is still too dry in southern Oklahoma and southward and the crop made poor growth in Ohio. Corn is growing well in Nebraska and much of Kansas, Illinois and central and easterly southern states. It needs rain in Missouri. Late grain is maturing fast. Harvest and threshing progressed well in most sections. There was some improvement by rain in the principal spring wheat area and harvest has begun as far north as Iowa and South Dakota. Pastures, meadows, potatoes and truck crops have improved where rain has fallen, but deteriorated elsewhere. Early potatoes have blighted in central districts.

Showers again have occurred in portions of every state of the Corn and Wheat region. There was great variation in the amounts but they were moderate to heavy in eastern Kentucky and the Lake Michigan region and upper Mississippi Valley. North Dakota, eastern South Dakota and central Montana, exceeding an inch in several places. The temperature continues about normal except in the Northwest where it is unseasonably cool.

Found Dead in Hotel.

Columbus, July 27.—Body of Ralph C. Christman, 28, of Zanoville, was found in a room on the fifth floor of the Virginia hotel here. Christman apparently had committed suicide by taking cyanide of potassium which he had sent for the day before. In his pocket was a draft classification card, I-A, and a draft tag, indicating that he possibly was on his way to Camp Sherman.

CAN ANYONE BEAT THIS

If anyone this season has threshed a larger yield than 37 3/4 bushels per acre on a 47 acre field it has not been reported and as far as is known this is the banner yield on so large an acreage.

The wheat required 165 pounds of twine and the field on the Laura Armstrong farm near Glendon, operated by C. P. Jamison and Omar Schwartz, has been watched with interest through the season.

Messrs. Jamison and Schwartz threshed 75 acres that yielded 31 1/4 bushels per acre, and 170 acres that yielded over 25 bushels per acre—the wheat all of fine quality.

HALF IN CLASS ONE

(American Press)

Washington, July 27.—Protest Marshal General Crowder informed state draft executives that more than 50 per cent of the 744,500 registrants in the 1918 class are expected to be placed in Class I as physically qualified for general military service and instructed them to give "special scrutiny to the report of any local board which fails to classify this percentage."

This estimate, General Crowder said, is based upon a study of the operation of the draft and the only exceptions which will be recognized are in the case of communities having a large alien population, or which have released large numbers of the 1918 class to the navy, marine corps or emergency fleet.
"The national average should be much higher than 50 per cent because industrial, agricultural and dependency deferments and physical rejections should be much lower," General Crowder's message said.
